The New-Yorkers appear to have forgotten how to bat, and their efforts in this direction were mentably weak. Of the four hits added to Newmade three. The Brooklyn players showed a lively interest in their work, and their all-around play so far superior to that of the New-Yorkers that they won practically as they pleased. Giants have made just one run in two days, and that run was presented to them on four bases on tile record as that made yesterday. Rusie was hit

With Davis sick and Murphy disabled, the Glants ere none too strong, and Umpire Stage seemed to rything he could to give the game to Brooklyn there was no occasion for Mr. Stage, in his youthful ignorance and inexperience, to interfere. Stage alled Fuller out at second in the first inning, and called Fuller out at second in the first inning, and Ward attested mildly, merely asking Stage if he wanted to give the game to Brooklyn, or something of that sort. Stage puffed up like a green frog, and, waving Ward to the bench in tragic fashion, he ordered the play to go on. Stafford was substituted for Ward amid frantic yells of disapproval from the crowd. In certain East-Side districts Stage would be known as a "very fresh young man." If this young man attempts any such tricks in the East, he will be sent back to his home in Cleveland, and he won't go in a Fullman sleeper.

Daly was the first batter up for Brooklyn, and he knocked the ball over the 25-cent seats for a home run. In the fourth inning Fuller's error gave Brooklyn two more runs. The little fellow fumbled Burns's grounder and then Rusic threw wildly to Dovie, which let "Tommy" get to second. On a wild pitch he reached third. Fourz walked to first scoring. Stein hit safely and Fourz crossed the plate.

GAMES IN OTHER CITIES.

Washington, June 22 -Washington broke its batting record to-day by pounding Lovett and Staley for twenty-six hits, with a total of some forty bases. After the Boston players saw that it was impossible to win the game they played indifferently and were leered by the crowd. In the seventh inning, after a visitor reached first, the home team made no effort to put the runner out. Attendance, 1.722. Score:

ANOTHER MAN MAKES THE FATAL JUMP

RIDING TO THE CENTRE OF THE STRUCTURE, HE QUICKLY CLIMBS THE RAIL AND DROPS OFF-

A young man made the fatal leap from the Brookbridge on a truck going to Brooklyn. Suddenly jumping off it, he climbed the railing of the south roadway and sprang off. His body turned over several times in the descent of 135 feet to the water. It sank out of sight, but reappeared for n instant before the tide carried it away.

The truck was driven by Ernest Krausmann, of accompanied by George M. McDermott, of No. 205 Thirty-second-st., and Thomas Cavanagh, of No. 220 Twentieth-st. The stranger asked the truck-driver at the bridge entrance to let him ride, and swung himself upon the vehicle. He took off his coat, remarking that it was too warm to the truck. As they approached the centre of the bridge, the young man stood up as if to get the breeze, but it was afterward supposed that he was watching a policeman, whose attention was engaged on the opposite roadway. He was not noticed to leave the truck, but the three men on it saw him climb the railing, and shouted, so that the attention of Policeman John Smith was at-

Word of the suicide was at once sent to the Bridge Police Station, and men were sent to the water front to see if any of his friends were waiting to rescue the bridge-jumper, but no one was found. The hat and coat of the suicide were carried to the Bridge office. They were badly worn and contained no means of identification. Captain Ward, of the Bridge Police, said it was evident that there would be no inquiries for the missing man.

The mantwas seen to strike the water by some persons on the wharf at the Bridge tower in Brooklyn.

THE TRICK OF A YOUNG GIRL THIEF.

Detective Philip Weller was standing at Sixtylighth-st. and Third-ave. on Thursday afternoon, when he saw a young girl closely pursued by a woman running toward him. He stopped the fugitive, who proved to be Annie Cohen, nineteen years old, of No. 123 Clinton-st. When the pursuer came up, she said she was Mrs. Brunn, a dress came up, she said she was Mrs. Brunn, a dress-maker, of No. 131 East Seventy-third-st, and that the girl had stolen her pocketbook, containing $19. The girl had gone into Mrs. Brunn's place, representing that she wanted a dress made for her welding, and would wait for her mother, who was on the way. Naturally she was left alone at times and after she was gone Mrs. Brunn missed her pocketbook and went in pursuit. Annie said she had a confederate named Hannah Goldman, eighteen years old, of No. 98 East Broadway. Hannah was arrested. Other complaints were made against Annie. AFFAIRS IN BROOKLYN.

TOO MUCH MONEY FOR THE TRUANTS' HOME The investigation of the affairs of the Truants' Home by the committee of Aldermen engaged in the work was continued yesterday, and more evidence | was given by Patrick Corrigan, superintendent. He was asked about the fine team of horses which he kept at the institution until after the election last fall. He alleged that the horses, which cost $500, were kept for farm work as well as for driving. Franklin Alen, who has looked into the conduct of the Home as an expert, presented a report. It set forth that the Home was a model of neatness and cleanliness, and a credit to the city. The boys seemed to be well cared for, but their food was not of the best. They had bean soup and pilot-bread four times a week. The total cost for food could not be more for each inmate than 10 cents a day, while the amount shown by the expenditures for maintenance was $12.471 last year, which was an average of $8.540 cents a day for each boy. Adding the value of the farm products, it amounted to 51 cents a day. Which was an average was $12.471 last year, which was an average of $8.540 cents a day for each boy. Adding the value of the farm products, it amounted to 51 cents a day. Which less me food for 70 per cent of the amount expended last year. He recommended that the cuitivation of the farm be abandoned, that it be laid down to grass, and cows kept to supply milk for the boys it had cost the city $10.000 in the last five years, and the returns from it were only $3.400. The report ended with the statement that the cost of managing of various reforms. fall. He alleged that the horses, which cost $500,

DEPARTMENT ESTIMATES REDUCED. The Board of Estimate took up the provisional Statements were made by Police Commissioner Welles, Excise Commissioners Forrester and Hacker, Park Commissioner Squier and President Harkness, of the Department of Assessment, in regard to the needs of their respective departments. A number of reductions were made. The Mayor said that $40,000 would have to be taken off the Park Department figures. The floard decided to cut $55,000 from the estimate of nearly $5,000,000 asked for by the Board of Education for 1895. Of this, $550,000 was cut off from the amount asked for new schoolhouses and additions to old ones, and $160,000 from the amount sought for salaries and supplies. A committee of firemen appeared before the Board asking an increase of $100 a year for each of the 400 firemen in the first grade. Mayor Schieren said the strictest economy would have to be observed to keep the appropriations within the legal limits, and it would take $40,000 to meet this requirement. JUDGE OBRIEN ON MR. COMSTOCK.

HIS OPINION . IS NOT CHANGED BY ADVERSE COMMENTS INTERESTED IN THE WORK OF SUPPRESSION.

Judge Morgan J. O'Brien, of the Superior Court is not in the slightest degree disturbed by the bold utterances of Anthony Comstock that he will never allow "Tom Jones," Ovid's "Art of Love,"
"The Decameron," "The Heptameron," the works of Rabelais, Rousseau's "Confessions" and Arabian Nights" to be sold, and that he will arrest anybody who attempts to sell them.

"In authorizing Receiver Little, of the Worthington Company, to sell Fielding's 'Tom Jones' and other books, which Mr. Comstock denounces as vulgar and wild trash, I was guided," said Judge O'Brien yesterday, "by the law governing the case and my own views as to the moral character of the books in question. It may be simply an hones difference of opinion on the part of Mr. Com-"Mr. Comstock thinks you ought to be impeached for giving the decision you have," suggested the refor giving the decision you have," suggested the reporter.

"I think," remarked the Judke, with a smile, "that Mr. Comstock ought not to allow himself to get too excited this hot weather. The best way is to keep cool, and when he cools off a little. I think he will view the matter in a different light. The fact is," continued the Judge, "I am as much interested as Mr. Comstock in suppressing the sale of victous books. I belong to a society organized for this special purpose, whose principal field of labor is the railroads through which demoralizing literature is scattered broadcast over the country. My reasons for permitting the sale of the books in question have been fully set forth in my opinion. There are no suggestive pictures in these books. There may be little laxity of speech, such as was permissible at the time the books were written, but they were not written to pander to prurient tastes, and, as I stated in my opinion, form a part of the standard literature of the English language."

FOUR BROOKLYN STORES. Why is it people don't get new the millionaire doesn't get time. Possibly the jailbird gets too much time. But there are myriads of men who are neither millionaires nor prisonaires, yet who go around with discouraged-looking clothes, whose rents are nearly due, and with underwear that shrinks for fear it may be exposed to view at any moment.

These men may think that good clothes are costly, but they ain't, they aren't, they're not. That is, if they go to the right place-there's everything

"there are others "-but if you come here you're sure.
